ARREST LORD DOUGLAS IN WINSTON CHURCHILL SUIT

London, Nov. 6.—Lord Alfred Douglas, son of the late Marquis of Queensbury, was arrested at his home here today on a charge of criminal actions against Winston Churchill. The libel is alleged to have been published in a pamphlet entitled "The Murder of Lord Kitchener and the Truth about the Battle of Jutland and the Jews."

The specific passage on which the charge is based has not been made known, but it is recalled that at the trial of the suit against the Morning Post in July it was brought out that an editor of a weekly publication called "Plain English," Douglas had printed charges that Jewish financiers made $8,000,000 pounds by manipulating the news of the battle of Jutland with the aid of Mr. Churchill.

RICH FATHER APPEALS FOR AID TO FIND SON

Charles G. Malaguti of West Roxbury, proprietor of the Columbia Center Company and a wealthy dealer in shoe findings at No. 10 South street, Boston, today appealed to the police for help in finding his sixteen-year-old son Donald, who has been missing since August 10.

Donald Malaguti went to Five Islands, Me., on a vacation, following a term of service with the 26th Division at Camp Devens in the early Summer. His family last heard from him through a letter from him to an older brother, dated August 10.

The lad, who lived with his parents at No. 194 Glenview street, West Roxbury, is reported to be quiet and steady, with no bad habits and strong family attachments. He is described as weighing 150 pounds, five feet and seven inches tall, light complexion and blue eyes.

His parents fear he met his death by drowning or otherwise at Five Islands.

FAKE LETTERS FROM MORGAN LEAD TO ARREST OF WOMAN
Paris, Nov. 6 (L.N.S.)—Mme. Jeanine Leonard, who attracted international attention last winter by claiming to be sole legatee of the $100,000,000 estate of the late J.P. Morgan, was arrested today after an American investigation proving that letters addressed to her and signed with the name of Morgan were forgeries.

Mme. Leonard lost her suit for the Heller estate and later a committee examined her and reported her mentally incompetent due to drugs.

JUDGE WEED 'GAME GUY,' SAYS BURGLAR

Judge Alonzo Weed's a game guy.
A burglar says so.
"He was such a 'game' guy I didn't have the heart to shoot him dead. My pal kept nudging me to 'hum' him off," but this today of approximately a cool bird and I wouldn't kill a guy like that—never.
"And when we tied him up and put 'em on his feet I went back and dragged him out of the draught and buttoned his coat around his neck so he wouldn't catch cold."

Philip Spear, alias Paul Spencer, who, the police say, is a desperate yore and burglar with a long criminal record, made this amazing statement to officers of the East Division station in his alleged confession to complicity in the break at the home of Superior Court Judge Alonzo H. Weed in Newton last Friday night.

The youthful gunman was arrested by officers in a South End pawnshop. On his person the officers found a loaded revolver, burglar's tools and valuable articles of jewelry, they say.

In a spirit of bravado, Spear made a clean breast of his connection with the break at Judge Weed's home. He talked of a "steal," but, Continued on Page 3, Col. 1.

12 DEAD, 30 DOOMED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Twelve bodies have been taken from the shaft mine of the Raleigh-Winning Coal Company at Glen Rogers, in which an explosion occurred today.

Little hope is entertained for thirty men still within the workings.

It was said that at the time of the explosion between sixty and seventy-five men were in the mine and that twenty-three had been brought out unharmed.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 6.—A rescue car of the United States Bureau of Mines has been ordered to Glen Rogers, the scene of a mine explosion.

Charles W. Voss, Nov. 6.—R. M. Lambie, chief of the State Department of Mines, left for Glen Rogers this morning after giving orders to assemble all mine inspectors there.

BANDIT GANG SEIZE TOWN, ROB 2 BANKS

Spencer, Ind., Nov. 6.—A band of robbers variously estimated in number from fourteen to twenty, robbed two banks here today of approximately $10,000 and wounded two citizens.

Traveling in four automobiles, the robbers first isolated the town by cutting all telephone and telegraph lines.

Both the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges are closed today, it being a legal holiday in New York for the State election and the government of the Boston Exchange having voted to shut down on account of the Wall Street closing.

RICH VICTIM TRAILED BY DETECTIVES

Maine Lumber Man to Bangor After Girl in Hub Hotel

Ernest Sprachlin, manager of the Copley Square Hotel, where many of the suckers were trapped by the alleged blackmail ring's luring lures, according to testimony, was today named as one of the alleged conspirators.

His name came out in dramatic fashion as the trial whizzed along on its fifteenth day.

Examining a witness, Special Prosecutor Arthur D. Hill asked that a conversation between the witness and Sprachlin be told.

Immediately half a dozen lawyers defending "Big Bill" Corcoran, Mr. Hill, Attorney Harry Lewsen and other alleged ring members charged with blackmail and conspiracy, based to their feet and belated vigorous objections.

"It is contended that Sprachlin is an alleged conspirator," argued Judge Quinn.

"I think it is so contended," replied Prosecutor Hill, "although he has not been indicted."

It revealed, as told by the witness, John Larkin, former Burns detective, that Sprachlin had helped him shadow a wealthy sucker (labeled by the ring).

Sprachlin also appeared from testimony in the role of treasurer of "Big Bill" Corcoran's drug company.

NAMED BY BLEUTH

The truck was delivering furs to customers of Louis Washer, No. 30 Chaucery street, Boston, and there were thirty-two bundles in it.

The driver was away from the machine only a few minutes delivering a bundle, and when he returned to the street it was gone. Washer said that he could not estimate the value of the furs until he had checked up, but he was sure that it would run high into the thousands.

Mrs. Carpenter was arrested as a result of an investigation.

SHOULD MOTHER SACRIFICE HER LIFE TO SAVE UNBORN CHILD?

CAMBRIDGE WOMAN MAY SOON FACE QUESTION

Should a mother value the life of her unborn babe above her own?

Will a mother deliberately lay down her life to give the world a motherless baby, to give her children a brother or sister at the cost of a mother's affection?

One mother at least in this world may be faced with the cruel choice. If her condition becomes worse, Mrs. Herbert E. Sullivan of Cambridge will have to give the word that will drive the surgeon's knife into her flesh, to bring a baby into being, and send her own soul to the heaven of mother-love, or she must shake her head and live a little longer for the sake of her two living children.

DUE IN 7 WEEKS

Mrs. Sullivan lies in City Hospital paralyzed from her shoulders down. Imbedded in her spine a few inches below the base of her brain is a revolver bullet, which cannot be removed and which will eventually cause her death.

Within seven weeks, if Nature were allowed to take her course, Kenneth and Virginia Sullivan would have their brother or sister. But doctors say at any moment face the necessity of operating, if the baby is to be born alive.

The decision, however, rests with the mother. They will ask her.

UNDER CLOSE WATCH

Dr. Fred Greene of the hospital staff is in charge of Mrs. Sullivan's condition.

KU KLUX SLAYER TELLS THREAT TO 'RUIN HIM'

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6.—Editor

John A. Bostin today asked the

Fulton County Grand Jury to indict

Philip E. Fox, editor of the Ku Klux

Klan, official organ of the Ku Klux Klan, for the shooting to death of Captain W. E. Culbert, attorney for a faction of the Klan.

"Culbert was about to publish articles against my character and reputation, made by other people, and which were untrue," Fox asserted.

"I tried to reason with him, but he still threatened to publish them.

The shooting had nothing whatsoever to do with the Ku Klux Klan.

It was a personal matter between myself and Culbert."

The shooting took place in Captain Culbert's office. The attorney was shot through the temple and through the abdomen, dying almost instantly. Mrs. Oscar Hayman, a client, was seated near Culbert and the first bullet splintered the desk on which her arm was resting.

Fred B. Johnson of San Antonio, chief of staff of the Empire State faction, charged that Fox had come to see the Empire State home on Packard road last Sunday night and threatened to kill him (Johnson).

OCEAN RUNNERS PROVE BIGGEST RUM PROBLEM

Washington, Nov. 6.—Rum-runners presents the greatest problem in prohibition enforcement, Mrs. Ma-attorney-general in charge of en-her annual report today to Attorney-

"The report also commented on the light runners given very few viola-pared with those imposed in other courts.

While no precise estimate of the amount of liquor smuggled into the United States could be obtained, the report says an indication of the amount is seen in imports to and exports from nearby British posses-

shipments from Nassau alone—and all said to be destined to the United States—were valued at $7,059,294

during the last fiscal year, while imports from the United States to

"The liquor smuggling business," criminal problem the United States has ever faced on the high seas."

"The Coast Guard is the only force having equipment to deal with smuggling on the high seas and observation is convincing that its equipment is not sufficient to sup-

Tableaux at Jordan Hall of Interest to Society, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

CLEVER Mrs. Reggy Foster is working for the success of the tableaux to be given on Wednesday afternoon and evening, November 28, at Jordan Hall in aid of the James Marsh Jackson League.

When Mrs. Foster was Frances Hoar, she was one of the most brightly shining stars of the Vincent Club shows. Both she and her sister, the former Louise Hoar, she is Mrs. Christopher LaFarge now, are exceptionally graceful dancers. Now her marriage dulled any of the sprightliness of Mrs. Foster, who is petite, has red-gold hair, merry blue eyes and a ready wit.

Besides possessing an unusually clever pair of feet, the one-time Frances Hoar has considerable talent in the way of designing costumes. She created the feminine raiment worn in "Why Not!" the musical show staged by society folk in January, as well as those worn in the last Vincent Club show.

As for the tableaux to be given on the 28th, Mrs. Archibald Blanchard heads the committee in charge, which includes, besides Mrs. Foster, Misses Henry S. Grew and Hendricks Hallett Whitman.

Miss Fisher is coming on from New York to arrange the tableaux, in which both the younger and older sets of society will participate. The pictures will be taken from old masters. The James Marsh Jackson League was formerly known as the Tide-Over League.

BOSTON society is interested to learn that Mrs. William Phillips (Caroline Astor Drayton) has been appointed chairman of the Monday Evening Supper Club, one of the most popular organizations of the capital. A host of notable matrons are listed as sponsors for the sixteen dances to be held at the Hotel Hamilton by the club.
Mrs. Phillips is the wife of Under Secretary of State, a former Bostonian and member of the Boston family of Phillips. This summer they spent on their North Shore place at Beverly.

MR. AND MRS. AMORY ELIOT have closed their North Shore place in Manchester and are settled for the season at the Hotel Somerset. A frequent visitor of the Eliots during the summer months was their daughter, standing Mrs. Lydia Codman.

A PROPOS of Mrs. Foster, her mother and stepfather, Speaker and Mrs. Frederick Gillett have returned to these shores following a short stay abroad.

During their European stay the Gilletts visited with Mrs. Gillett's younger daughter, Mrs. Christopher LaFarge, whose June wedding was one of Washington's most important ceremonies. Mr. and Mrs. LaFarge plan to spend the winter abroad. Mrs. Foster attended her sister as matron of honor.

ARMY OF GIRLS TO AID VETS' DRIVE

Mrs. Nathaniel F. Emmons, chief organizer of groups of girls to sell forsmen's notes for the drive of Boston Chapter, No. 1, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, Friday and Saturday, sat with a four-foot square map pasted up before her at headquarters, No. 28 School street, Room 4, plotting out routes on which her various groups shall travel on those days, so as to make a clean sweep of Greater Boston.

Katherine O'Brien M. Macielaine Hayes
Into her calculations came eight or ten automobiles which patriotic individuals have allotted for her use on those days.

Since the army of 800 girls seems likely to be considerably increased, judging from the stream of favorable reports pouring in to Mrs. Emmons from her various lieutenants in the organization, the flower distribution headquarters must be expanded.

Mary V. Walsh Elizabeth Moxley
Adding the Moughton-Corner Flower Shop, beneath the Park Street Church, additional space was supplied in the Mary Elizabeth Tea Room, on the opposite corner.
Some of the lieutenants announced by Mrs. Emmons: Mrs. William Leach, Milton; Mrs. John Parkinson, Charles River Village; Mrs. Richard Lawrence, Groton; and Mrs. William H. Dunbar, Cambridge.

MRS. REGINALD C. FOSTER
Mrs. Foster (Frances Hoar) is on the committee in charge of the tableaux to be given at Jordan Hall on November 28.

EARLY VOTING IN CAMBRIDGE SURPRISING

The biggest vote ever cast in the city is indicated today in the municipal elections. The candidacy of Godfred W. Cabot, in opposition to Edward W. Quinn, the present incumbent, following a stirring campaign, in which Cabot made serious charges against the Quinn regime, is responsible for the big vote.

When the polls opened at 6 a. m., long lines of voters were already formed at the Boston Cambridge polling place. East Cambridge is admittedly a Quinn stronghold, and the early voters were mostly working men and women.

In the North Cambridge precincts, which Quinn claims will give him heavy majorities, the early voting was remarkable.

In the battle street, Huron avenue and Harvard square districts, where the Cabot strength lies, there was an extraordinary activity on the part of the women voters. Women outnumbered men in the forenoon voting, and women motorists were busy bringing Cabot supporters to the polls all day.

The Cambridge police report that, despite the unusual crowds at the polls, the election is one of the most peaceful ever held. Not a single disturbance was reported up to noon.

Thousands of commuters were made late for work and street car service through the Park street subway was delayed for twenty minutes today when a fuse blew out on a Commonwealth avenue car while rounding the loop at Park street.

KABATZICK, L.L. FINANCIAL DIFFICULTY

ETHEL DEMPSEY

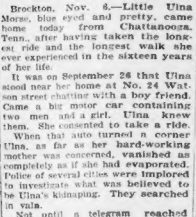

Benjamin "Bennie" Kabatzick, Boston street art dealer, who achieved publicity a year ago last May when a series of episodes came to light in which Geneva Mitchell, Marilyn Miller and other show girls figured, is seriously ill.

The illness of "Bennie," as he is popularly known among many stock-folk, came to light when it was learned that he is in financial difficulties and has made a general assignment for the benefit of his creditors to Albert A. Quabser.

"Bennie" is said to be suffering from diabetes and a complication of ailments, and has undergone a recent operation. He has not been near his art store since last July.

It was in an apartment on Cornmouth avenue rented by Kabatzick to an actress, that two chorus girls were beaten up and tossed out into the street at a party on May 14, 1922. "Bennie" was not in the party, but Geneva Mitchell, a Ziegfeld star sharing honors with Marilyn Miller, then playing in "Shilly," was.

ETHEL DEMPSEY

Miss Dempsey is an ardent sports-woman and hunter. While the dogs treed the opossum near the "ch-r-r-r-r" Southern resort, she was the first to catch up with the animal, and then shot it dead.

Dr. Ruth Morris, Miss Dempsey's physician, of Newport, N. H., helped out the game.

Was First

From the beginning of the world, women have always been absorbingly interested in dress patterns. This is a reason why a daily pattern feature appears on the magazine page of The Boston American, with coupon attached. By returning the coupon and ten cents, a woman gets the pattern pictured.

During the past twelve months 154,000 women readers of The American have sent for patterns and have spent for them $15,400.

When a woman gets a pattern, she doesn't let the matter drop, but goes to the store whose advertising appears in the paper she reads—and buys dress goods to make the patterns come true. An average of 4 3/4 yards of material, exclusive of trimmings, goes into each Boston American pattern.

These 154,000 pattern buyers have bought for their patterns a total of 645,500 yards.

Here's Where Public Gets Off in That 75-50 Railway Deal

New England railroads seeking a 20 per cent. increase in commutation ticket fares say it costs their roads $1.50 to give $1 worth of service. Maybe this is the reason:

Boston & Maine train No. 210, bound from Lowell, broke down today at Arlington. Train was due at the North Station at 12:1. After the engine went dead 150 passengers were given the air and left to their own devices to reach their destination.

"Aren't you going to give us a relief train?" asked an irate passenger.

"There's the elevated," said a trainman.

Boston & Albany train broken by engine No. 621, due in Boston at 11:11 from Wellesley, broke down at Norwood. A connecting road ploughed up half a mile of road. Six hundred passengers were jammed into a local train like so many sheep and rode to Boston twenty-five minutes late.

"It'll cost 'em 10c instead of 5c to give $1.50 worth of service if this keeps up," said an angry commuter. "Every time one of these local passes a junk pile it tries to keep the rails for home."

COUNTRESS RENEE DE MONTESSO

CHILD MISSING THANKSGIVING PROCLAIMED BY DIVORCE COOLIDGE

New York, Nov. 6.—The mystery surrounding the whereabouts of four-year-old Countess Renee de Montesso, whom the Princess de Lippe-Lipski, of Hamburg, had brought to this country a year ago for the purpose of adopting her, continued today to be the chief puzzle in the tangled web created by the Princess de Lippe-Lipski's charges against her husband and her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder.

The princess is suing her sister for alienation of the prince's affections and has announced her intention of suing her husband for divorce. The prince has instructed his attorneys, Gluck and Plotzky, to start an action against his wife for annulment of her marriage on the grounds of fraud.

Joseph A. Shay, attorney for the princess, said he heard the princess had gone to the Sterling estate, near Portchester, N. Y., Saturday afternoon and had taken the child away, and that she is now in the possession and care of the princess.

Mr. Plotzky of the prince's attorneys was just as positive that the princess didn't have the child and that she was under the supervision of the Westchester County authorities. He declined, however, to say where he thought or knew the child to be.

Replying to an interview the princess gave Saturday, in which she charged she had supported the prince ever since their marriage, the princess said through his attorneys that his wife knew when she was married to him that with the exception of his large lighting patents and some jewels he brought from Russia, he was without funds.

According to the prince, however, his wife was attracted by his title and had his genuineness investigated and established before their marriage.

TRAMP ON RUBBER SOLES

Washington, Nov. 5.—The tramp of heavy shoe soldier feet is likely to be hushed so far as the U. S. Army is concerned.

If recommendations made by the chief of infantry are approved, American doughboys will discard belated shoes and instead will tread on soles composed of rubber, cotton and other materials. The composition made by a secret process.

"BO" GREAT AS COACH

"Bo" McMillan, Centenary's great quarterback, is just as good a coach as he was a player, according to reports from the South. Centenary may surprise Boston College at the Wilmam Saturday.

HOME OUT OF TIGER

With six regulars on the sidelines, Harvard entered the last cycle of preparations for the annual invasion into the Tiger jungle.

The glum faces are those of Nat Howe, regular first string halfback, Jack Hammond, Crimson punting dam, and most dependable and versatile man in the Crimson offense, Charlie Eastman, regular tackle. Ted Crosby, first string end, and Ed Donovan, substitute tackle.

With the exception of Howe, all received injuries in the Tufts game. Howe's injury was sustained in the Holy Cross game, and it has kept him in "civies" for the past two weeks. It is feared that neither he nor Donovan will be in condition to play against Princeton.

Forward pass formations used by the Crimson in their aerial game were employed in great style by the scrubs, and they caught the variety in the practice session wide open time and time again. Four passes out of five were completed for long gains.

The varsity lined up with Hill and Gordon at the outposts of the front line. Combs got in the scrimmage at an early stage. He supplanted Gordon, Evans and Russell. Hubbard substituted for Eastman. Forward pass formations used by the scrubs, and they caught the variety in the practice session wide open time and time again. Four passes out of five were completed for long gains.

In the back field, Joe McGilne yelped the signals while, Charley Eastman, Lockwood, Coburn and Jenkins backed the line at quarter, and Cordingley, Plattman, and Cheek swung into action against the scrubs near the close of the scrimmage.

The quarterback situation at Harvard is settled. McGilne decided once and for all in the Tufts game that he's the boy for that position, and that he is the one signal-caller on the team who can actually get results from the team.

Lee and Spaulding are fairly good quarterbacks, but they cannot lead their team. They can't make the Crimson give every ounce of energy, and that is something that McGilne can do.

Practice threw no light on the starting backs. The leading candidates are Cheek, Lockwood, Plattman, Cordingley and Coburn. Hammond will start as fullback. He will get the assignment over time.

Practice in the Stadium today will be speeded up to the maximum. Bertramman will start as fullback. There is a possibility that more than the usual amount of fight will be put into it.

Princeton plays will be tried by the scrubs and a Crimson defense for the team will be perfected.

VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY TO OPPOSE HARVARD
The University of Virginia will meet Harvard in a track athletic meet on Soldiers Field Thursday, May 1.

This unusual day for holding a track meet at Cambridge is being observed by the fact that the Virginia had a Saturday date in the North the same week.

The two teams have met only once before. That was during Harvard's spring recess in 1927, when the Crimson won at Charlottesville by a narrow margin.

SPRINGFIELD BILLS
THREE BIG EVENTS
Springfield, Nov. 6.—Springfield College will hold three home contests this week, variety football with Lebanon Valley and a basketball game with Holy Cross on Saturday afternoon and a soccer game with Syracuse Friday afternoon.

EAGLE IN GOOD CONDITION FOR CENTENARY

Whip Bo McMillan's "Louisiana Centenary" already on the way, and due to arrive in Boston Thursday morning. There is excitement in the practice session wide open time and time again. Four passes out of five were completed for long gains.

Bo McMillan's outfit has done him credit so far this season. Its outstanding feat was to defeat Louisiana and Hendrix on successive days, and both by substantial scores.

The Eagle is presenting its features for the coming fray and, notwithstanding the Georgetown scrum, is in fairly good condition. Trainer Frank Jones promises to have both Brainer and McManis in top before the week is out, and this will help substantially in the polishing of the primary defense.

Bill Cronin also may be released, but Ward Corcoran and Kearney will remain on the mountaintop list.

The Eagle has been handicapped since the early part of the season by injuries, but despite fact he shows it has one of the most powerful eleven that ever represented the New York institution.

One big fact about Saturday's game, is that the substitutes on hand are at all times reliable. When he banded up force forced Elbery to the sidelines it necessitated Cavanaugh's introduction of Jack O'Brien in the guard capacity. O'Brien never before had played varsity football, but did himself "proud."

BENNY LEONARD TO BOX LEW TENDLER
New York, Nov. 6 (Universal)—It is reported that Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler have been matched to fight twenty rounds for the title at La Jolla, Mexico.

"Smile Jim" Coffroth, who operated the race track there, is said to have arranged the match, and that the date will be given out later.

WESLEYAN'S COACH SENDS FOR BACON
Middletown, Conn., Nov. 6.—Bacon, Wesleyan's quarterback in 1923, and All-America quarterback that year has been sent for by Coach Martin to help drill the Wesleyan team in the game with Williams on Saturday. The team came through the game with Williams on Saturday. Antkin, the varsity center, hurt his thumb again, but it will not keep him out of the game Saturday.

VALE'S TRAINER GIVES THREE A REST

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 6.—Captain Malloy, Diller and Eckart, the two guards, were rested from work and did not report to the field for the first practice after the Yale Army game.

All are in first class shape, but in view of the fact that Eckart played through the game, and Captain Malloy and Miller played for more than 60 minutes.

Trainer Gomers decided that it was better to give them a day off. Bench played in the signals in place of Malloy, while the second guard position was taken by Eassey and Norris.

Otherwise the lineup was Bligham and Luman, ends; Milledad and Blain, tackles; Levey, center; Richardson, quarterback; Stevens, left halfback; and Ford, right halfback.

The work for the varsity consisted of a signal drill and of a very short scrimmage against the second team.

BOWDOIN SENDS BIG GROUND TO TUFTS GAME

It is expected that a big crowd of Bowdoin rooters will accompany the big White team to Medford Saturday. It is understood that the entire student body of Bowdoin College will come down from the state to witness the game.

Bowdoin grid-iron fans will get an opportunity to see a war of Greater Boston boys who are members of the White eleven. The Harvard twins, former Gardner, Me, march, Walter Chelney, assistant coach.

It will be remembered that Robert proved a sensation against Harvard at the Stadium a year ago.

Bill Martin, Bowdoin fullback, is a former Withrop High player; Phillips, Coach Osterberg's quarterback, is one of the biggest axes of the Maine college eleven and can be expected to bring a fine bag of tricks to the Oval.

The Casey coached eleven is confident of winning. Light workouts for the players who saw action against Harvard is the order at the Oval for the first of the week with a stiff session on Thursday to round out the training for the Saturday game.

Changes in his forward line because of injuries sustained in the game at the Stadium last week-end.

Carl "Wood" Tyler, sturdy Jumbo tackle, is badly in need of a good rest and he will stay out of the game until the Apple game.

Waltham Refuses to Join Suburban

By FRED C. LANE
An invitation to become a member of the Suburban League to Waltham High was declined by the Waltham City school officials. This was the first attempt made by the officials of the Suburban League to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Maiden High, which will take effect at the end of the football season.

It was thought that such an invitation would meet with the hearty approval of the Waltham officials. The refusal was a severe blow to those who are trying to keep the league going.

What school that can fill the vacancy is the problem that the Suburban officials must decide. The "Big Four" as they have been called, feel that they have carried the financial burden of the league long enough.

The Northern and Southern High Schools of Waltham are waging a fight to have the vacancy filled by one of the city officials. The Southern team, coached by Mr. Bennett, has scored one victory. Mr. Eldridge is in charge of the Northern team. The second meeting will take place on Friday.

The Cushing Academy Deans Academy game slated for Saturday has been put over to Monday. It will be played at Cushing Field, Pittsborough. The proceeds will go to the Cushing Academy building fund.

Captain Kelly of Marblehead High has resigned. Since the defeat by Wintthrop early in the season there has been internal trouble, and he was not able to play. A successful team will be selected before the season.

The Lowell-Haverhill game, slated for Saturday will be played again on Monday.

Centenary Rooters Will Come With Eleven

When Centenary College, the mystery team of the South-west, comes to Boston this week, the players, twenty-seven in number, will be accompanied by two hundred fans.

Before McMillan became coach of the Louisiana school, football was an unknown quantity in Shreveport, where Centenary is located. But with the introduction of a winning team, the entire populace has become sportsman.

The madness has increased to such a degree that the mayor has set aside Saturday as a holiday, in order that the inhabitants, confident that their team will be victorious in its first northern invasion, may assemble at the scoreboard which has been erected.

Two hundred others have telegraphed advice to the Boston College Athletic Association for reservations for "best seats at Brattle Field this Saturday."

BARRETT AND GRADWELL BATTLE AT TROUBLE WITH COOK

Barrett Wins
By JACK CONWAY
Bobby Barrett, Philadelphia's entry in the Lightweight freestyle, came marching into town today. This heavy-hitting young man is billed to swap blows with our Willie Gradwell in a ten-round all-star at the Army A. A. show at the Grand Opera House tonight.

And what about Barrett? Here's a brief summary on this energetic young man:
He has outboxed Joe Tippits, a big Boston winner; Harry (Kid) Brown, Mickey Donley and a regiment or so of other enterprising ring men. He has also swapped blows with reckless abandon with Lefty Low Tender and Charley White. The latter has signed his name to a statement to the effect that Barrett is the hardest-hitting lightweight he has ever met.

Doughty is manager Barrett. You probably remember that Red was referee of the Dempsey-Gibbons bout at Shelby. He was the master of ceremonies when the champion battled with Billy Micks at Boston Harbor. Dempsey considers Doughty one of the finest judges of boxes in this country.

Doughty is of the opinion Barrett will prove a rise in his Boston debut. Perhaps Red doesn't know a great deal about Willie Gradwell. The latter is liable to make the place of any boxer. The Somerset lightweight collided with Mickey Walker and Willie Gradwell before leaving New England. Since making his home here Gradwell has been winning steadily. He is today considered the best boxer of his weight in New England.

Since going under the management of Eddie Mack, Gradwell has been over Tommy Tunney and Charley Parker.

Bill Middleton of Lynn and Eddie Tabor of Nahant, N. H., will engage in a war of the semi-finish rounds. George Street of Beverly will travel eight seasons with Lefty Williams of Lowell, while Young Courtney of Oklahoma and Young Pangloss of Quincy are also expected to show.

Jack Dempsey has displayed excellent judgment in increasing his earnings in Los Angeles real estate. He is sure to 10 to 15 per cent on his money, while the value of his holdings will increase as Los Angeles is growing faster than any city in the United States. Other boxers should follow Dempsey's example and invest their money in real estate instead of trying to get rich over night on some fake stock or by rolling the dice.

When you buy real estate, if you are a boxer, don't be talked into putting your money into properties that of late have been owned by Nelson Lee. A fortune by buying prize lands on the best of town, but real estate would soon be gone from his investments. The Durable Dams went broke paying land taxes. He finally lost the money. He is now in jail. Joe Burman, advised by Nate Lewis, made $200,000 by buying prize lands in Chicago real estate.

Johnny Kilbane, a parish priest directing his business affairs, has accumulated half a million dollars by real estate investments in Cleveland.

The big hit for the sure thing investments for the sure thing is to get 10 per cent on their money in real estate. Meanwhile there is always the chance that your principal will double itself.

Eddie Shelvin, the most notable boxer to represent New England during the past decade, has made more than $100,000 boxing during the last five years. He has put part of this money into real estate in Roxbury. It is also said that Shelvin is contemplating the purchase of a big garage. If Eddie sheds half the brains and ability in business he has in the ring, he will make very much more money in business than he has a boxer.

"Do you know what I impressed me most at the Shelby-Ward bout?" said Nat Lewis, circulation manager of the Boston American.
"It was Shelby's wonderful fighting ability," he continued. "He never made a false move even when he was being punished severely. He also proved that an attack is the best defense. There is no water, water, who compares with Shelby as a master of the fine points of the ring game. Shelby has brains."

Wills a Winner Against Thompson

Wills a Winner Against Thompson
Newark, N. J., Nov. 6 (Universal).—Harry Wills, the negro champion for Jack Dempsey's crown, put away Jack Thompson, the champion of the world, in the fourth round of their fight. The bout was scheduled for 12 rounds, but in the fourth Wills, with a right to the body, knocked Thompson out.

As the referee began to count, a towel dropped into the ring. There was only five seconds to go. Thompson's seconds decided their man couldn't continue further.

Thompson was on his hands and knees, not completely out, when the towel was tossed in. The Boston fighter absorbed a lot of blows in the first three rounds, and a lot more in the fourth before Wills was never in danger and crowded him all the while.

It was the fourth round when the pair, and Wills was won three or four times previously. It was all over the knockout route.

Wills is now on a campaign, which he announces will show he is entitled to meet Dempsey.

FOUL TO SIGN UP

Lee Fahl, who will be new boss of the Red Sox, arrives in Boston this week, and signs a contract. President Quinn has been nationally congratulated for signing the former Brown pilot.

TRIPLE A TONIGHT

Knocked Out
Luis Firpo, "Wild Bull of the Pampas," knocked out Jack Dempsey with a right hand punch in the early part of the first round of their famous battle at the Yankee stadium, according to a statement made by the champion to Jack Conway, boxing editor of the Boston American. Dempsey declared after Firpo counted with the right hand uppercut which sent the title holder to the canvas for the first time.

Dempsey admits he was knocked through the ropes and that it was unconscious when he struck the great table. The shock of hitting the press table cleared his head to the point where he was able to ask those at the ringside to push him into the ring.

For the rest of the first round Dempsey says he had been treated in his corner. He did not come to until after he was in the second frame.

Dempsey asserts he would have been in his own wonderful condition. His legs, in particular, saved the day for him. When his brain was dull and fuzzy from the power of Firpo's tremendous punches, the champion's legs held him up. Dempsey is frank in admitting that Firpo would have won the championship in the first round only for his own lack of condition.

There were remarkable revelations of the "inside" story of the Dempsey-Firpo bout were made by Mr. Conway at a talk before the fight at Roxbury Post, No. 44, of the American Legion at O'Connell Hall. Dempsey ready for Firpo's heavy blows which has surrounded Dempsey's true condition during the first round of his battle with Firpo.

Dempsey says he told his own story of his furious battle with Firpo, declared the Boston A. A.'s boxing expert to a capacity gathering. "And the champion, I saw let you Dempsey's own story as he related it to me as he rested at his hotel the day after the clash at the Yankee stadium."

"I am very fortunate to be heavy weight champion of the world to day," said Dempsey. "Firpo would have been the title holder if he had been in better condition for the contest."

"Few persons know that the Argentine giant knocked me out with the first blow he delivered in the opening round. You will remember that I rushed Firpo at the bell. I wanted to win as quickly as possible, chiefly because it was one of my major ambitions to win the title of the United States into battle against a representative of a foreign country."

"I am very fortunate to be heavy weight champion of the world to day," said Dempsey. "Firpo would have been the title holder if he had been in better condition for the contest."

"Women Are Still Men's Slaves —and Love It!"

So Says Dr. Gina
Lombroso, Scientist

Daughter of the Famous Scientist

---But What Say the

selves?

Dr. Gina Lombroso, Who Says Modern Women at Heart Yearn for "Subjugation" by Men.

At Right—"SLAVE" No. 3—Jessie Reed, "Highest Paid Show Girl in the World," Who Took a $3,800-a-Week Salary with Dan Canwell and Then Told Him, "Oh, to jump in the lake!"

"SLAVE" No. 6—Margot Asquith, Britain's Unbridled Diarist, Who "Boasted" a Premier of England and Then Wrote a Book About It or, they make others the center of their desires. "Man is not like the woman, like all living organisms untamed by potential maternity, is an egocentric, that is to say, he makes himself and his pleasures and his activities the center of the world in which he lives.

Applying these general principles to concrete life, Dr. Lombroso seems to regard man as the inevitable leader, and woman as his complement, his self-sacrificing and dependent helper.

"Woman is happy when, by her indolence and helplessness, she attracts the attention of a man strong enough to guide her, who can lend her his opinion and aggressiveness, who can defend her, direct her, protect her, and use her activity and her activities for the best advantage.

"For this reason, I think it is a mistake to proclaim, as suffragists do now, that woman is an independent creature having no need of man's advice and counsel, and that the man who lets her develop freely is worthy of praise.

"Woman is submissive because at heart it is not dispassionate but to obey a man, especially if she happens to like him. When man is obliged to help woman and care for her, his best instincts are developed, while she finds greater satisfaction than by trying to live her own life.

Naturally Dr. Lombroso's views have aroused the violent disapproval of many American women, particularly leaders in the feminist movement. Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, president of the National Woman's Party, has just made a statement proclaiming her belief in the steadily opposite destiny for woman.

Declaring that marriage is "a sort of slavery," she says: "I would not put it in so many words that marriage is a failure, but it seems to me that it is a failure for themselves. Marriage will be more successful when women are more independent. Men soon tire of the clinging vine type. They like the intelligent girl best."

Other women more outspoken in their opinions and declare that Dr. Lombroso's book is tantamount to arguing that woman is happy when she is literally a "slave," and that if her argument were to be logical conclusion it would mean that woman was happiest of all in the old days, when man held her in actual captivity.

Mary Sigrist, well-known writer who believes in equal rights, says that Dr. Lombroso's views "are a throwback to the Middle Ages—or rather of the vintage of the Middle Ages."

In plain English, she thinks this view of woman's place dates back to the time of the cave-man and the cave-woman. Dr. Lombroso regards woman's mission as, in a sense, even higher than man's, in that she must adhere to a higher moral code and must be the mother of the race.

But Mary Sigrist says: "No one doubts woman's mission in the world, or her aptitudes, but that because of these things she should follow a supreme and alvin condition is unthinkable."

Not all intelligent American women, however, are inclined to react so violently. Ruth Snyder, though taking exception to some of the points, says Dr. Lombroso's arguments are "created with thought and nourished with wisdom, and should help both men and women to a better understanding."

That there are some American women who share Gina Lombroso's views, to the extent of putting them into practice is interestingly illustrated by the fact that Maria Chase, beautiful prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, recently married and gave as a reason that "no matter how handsome my career might be, I could not be fully happy unless I had a man to work for."

Edna St. Vincent Millay, famous poet, ardent feminist and believer in equal rights, has taken a similar step in marrying Eugene Boleyn, and there are many other famous and successful American women who put their husbands and their home lives ahead of their careers.

Dr. Lombroso says, they are right. Other American women, like Elsa Fergu-son, the actress, and Betty Fiercen Parsons, the sculptress, who divorce their husbands because they cannot let man interfere with their careers, are storing up unhappiness for themselves, according to Dr. Lombroso.

She believes that for woman love is all important, but says that woman must find this love in marriage, and sums up her views by saying: "The woman who does not marry, or who does not find in marriage the full satisfaction she feels entitled to, will never be happy—but if absolute freedom from marriage is gained, all women would be unhappy."

"SLAVE" No. 4—Mrs. I. Y. Lazare, Noted Suffragist, as She Appeared at the Seventy-fifth Anniversary of the First Woman's Rights Meeting.

been nothing extraordinary in these dicta. Nearly everybody believed them. But to-day, when women everywhere are claiming, and in many cases, obtaining "equal rights" along all lines, they started a violent world-wide controversy.

These views, if you please, come not from a man—but from a woman! And not from an old-fashioned woman, but from a modern and internationally famous scientist, Dr. Gina Lombroso, daughter of the great Italian criminologist and wife of Guglielmo Ferraro, noted historian.

In a book called "The Soul of Woman," which is said to have defeated woman suffrage in France and which is now creating a furore in America, she declares the whole feminist movement, defense of the "old-fashioned woman" as the trust and best feminine type, and bases her argument, not upon sentiment or emotion, but upon purely scientific grounds.

Her central point is this: That "woman is altruistic and man is egocentric." Woman is the altruist, man the egoist. Woman is unselfish, man is selfish.

"There is no use denying it. Woman is not man's equal. Aside from the evident physical and intellectual differences between man and woman, there is another which over shadows and stamps them all. The fundamental fact which determines woman's attitude toward life is that woman is an altruist; that is to say, she centers her feelings, her enjoyment, her ambition, in something that is outside herself; she makes, not herself, but another person, or even things surrounding her, the center of her emotions; and usually this person is some one whom she loves and by whom she wants to be loved.

"In other words, woman lives for others, and the same which burns within her goes out if there is no one to help her keep it alive. Even selfish and perverse women who care only for their own advantage and who want to harm others, concentrate their feelings and emotion in others; they are selfish in an altruistic way, so to speak. In good and in WOMAN is NOT man's equal. Woman's place is in the home. Woman should obey her husband and submit to his direction and orders.

If a man strays from the narrow path, his wife's attitude should be one of "complete pardon and forgiveness."

But if a woman tends to stray, it is the right and duty of the husband to drag her back and force her to be faithful. For woman "there is no right to love outside the bonds of marriage."

Woman must accept the "double standard," giving man privileges which she dare not enjoy. Woman, in her soul, wants to be "subjugated" by a man.

Even if she makes a successful independent career, woman is not happy unless she has a man for whom to work. "Man has the 'upper hand,' and it is only by 'modifying' man's habits and appealing to his chivalry that woman's condition can be bettered."

A hundred years ago there would have

SOME of the downtown office buildings are so cold that a lot of employees are freezing to death. If you can't get heat, the only thing to do is to hire Eskimos for stenographers.

INSTEAD of giving them an hour for lunch they'd be just as well satisfied if you threw them a couple of fish at noon time.

OF course, if you got an Eskimo stenographer who loved peas, she might want to use a polar bear for a lap dog.

NO boss would want his secretary coming to work with a seal under each arm.

EVERY time she wanted the office boy she wouldn't bother to call him, she'd just throw a harpoon at him.

OF course she'd be so used to living in a country where the nights are six months long that she'd be apt to leave the office some evening and not come back for twenty-four weeks.

IN her home town they use calendars instead of clocks.

HGR boss wouldn't know what to say if she should ask him for the day off.

AN Alaskan day is equal to a hundred and eighty American afternoons.

AND one of their mornings would be an indefinite vacation with us.

IF the boss ever told his Greenland amanuensis to stay home for a couple of weeks he wouldn't see her again for seven years.

ESKIMO stenographers would be quite a novelty, but steam heat is much cheaper.
